ABSTRACT

The study was principally directed at investigating the effectiveness of internal control at Founders High School. In this study twenty employees where used as the research subject. Questionnaires and interviews were used as research instruments. The related literature based on internal control was used as a guide to provide information on what was expected for on internal control of an organisation to be effective. Data was presented in form of tables and pie charts. The presented data was analysed and interpretations were made. Finally, the writer came up with a number of recommendations which can assist other schools when it comes to internal controls. The recommendations can also help public enterprises like city councils and rural district councils.
